

Bidvest Noonan strengthens its executive team with key appointments

March 1, 2022

Bidvest Noonan has appointed Eddie Ingram to the newly created role of Chief Services Officer and named Sarah Cork as Managing Director of its National Security Solutions Business Unit.

As Chief Services Officer, Eddie Ingram will be responsible for developing strategies to improve the performance of its operations and ensure the business provides the very best service in the market. Eddie Ingram has vast industry experience and has been a long-serving member of Bidvest Noonan's senior leadership team.

Bidvest Noonan's new Managing Director for its National Security Business, Sarah Cork, has also been promoted from within the company. Cork previously served as Bidvest Noonan's National Operations Director and has built substantial experience in sectors such as logistics & distribution, retail and corporate making her a perfect fit for the role. As Managing Director, Sarah Cork will have responsibility for the growth and development of the National Security Business Unit.

These appointments are the latest in a series of investments that Bidvest Noonan has made in its structure and leadership team. The company recently launched new transport and London security business units to improve the support it delivers to its customers.

Sarah Cork, Managing Director for Bidvest Noonan's National Security business unit, said: "I'm delighted to take on this new role. We have fantastic relationships with our clients and have a strong team that provides exceptional security solutions. I am confident that, working together, we will be highly successful."

Commenting on his new appointment, Eddie Ingram said: "I'm delighted to have been appointed Chief Services Officer. We have exciting plans for the development of our business. I am looking forward to helping Bidvest Noonan pursue its growth and transformation agenda."

Bidvest Noonan CEO, Charlotte Marshall, commented: "We have now built a very strong management team with substantial expertise and experience. Our focus is on improving the performance of our business and the support and experience we deliver to our clients. Eddie and Sarah will play key roles in achieving these objectives."