

Costain appoints group communications and investor relations director

September 23, 2021

Costain has appointed Louise Bryant as Group communications and investor relations director, starting in the role next month.

Louise joins Costain from Aggreko where she was director of investor relations and corporate affairs. Louise led Aggreko's investor relations, corporate and financial PR, government affairs and crisis communications. Louise was also key in driving Aggreko's ESG agenda, developing and embedding the sustainability strategy within the overall corporate strategy.

Louise started her career at PricewaterhouseCoopers and is a chartered accountant. She moved to Citi as a lead equity analyst before joining Thomas Cook as head of investor relations, managing the company's relationships with equity and credit analysts and investors.

Alex Vaughan, chief executive officer at Costain said: "Louise brings a wealth of experience to Costain. Having worked in both corporate communications and investor relations, Louise will fully integrate our external communications to ensure that our messaging is consistent across all of our key stakeholders."

Louise Bryant, commented: "I am delighted to be joining Costain and I am looking forward to developing an integrated communications function to support the wider objectives of the business."
