

Gemini Rail Services announces new chief executive officer

February 8, 2023

Gemini Rail Services and ADComms, have announced that Craig Scott is their new chief executive officer. Craig takes over from Austin Wallace who has led the businesses for the past two years.

Craig has a wealth of experience in the UK and overseas, and has held executive positions in Manufacturing, Construction, Engineering, Consultancy and Education businesses. Craig led the stabilisation, turnaround and growth of TSP Engineering, TSP Projects, and Systra Consultancy.

Daniel Hannappel, Mutares shareholder director said: "Craig is joining AD Comms and Gemini at an exciting time for the businesses. He brings an outstanding record of leadership within the UK rail sector and will drive forward the businesses with continued support from Mutares."

Craig said: "I am delighted to lead ADComms and Gemini in the delivery of innovative solutions that enable better journeys. These are exciting times in the UK rail market and I look forward to joining my colleagues in deploying our experience and expertise as a leading provider of track to train communications solutions and innovative rolling stock upgrades."

Photo credit: Gemini Rail Services