MacRail Systems Appoints Adam Crago to MacRail Board of Directors

August 3, 2021

MacRail Systems is delighted to announce that they will be expanding the Board of Directors, with Adam Crago being appointed as Operations Director, with effect 1st August 2021.

Adam has been with the company for over 11 years and has been at the forefront of the company's operations development for much of that time.

MacRail Systems Managing Director, Tim Westwood, said of the appointment "Adam has been an invaluable member of the team throughout his career with us but has taken on an even more significant role since the business was purchased from the previous owners"

"Adam's experience and knowledge of both our company and the rail industry brings a great strength to our business and I am delighted to see him joining the board and driving the company forward. His input from an operational perspective will be hugely significant as we plan the next phase of the business' growth and expansion"

Adam said of his appointment "I am delighted to have joined the Board of Directors and look forward to further assisting the business on a strategic level as well as pushing the company forward on an operational front. With the services and technologies, we have available as well as our rapidly developing software packages, this is an exciting time for the company in terms of development and growth"

The expansion of the board is another indication of the commitment MacRail Systems Ltd have to growing the business significantly over the coming years.

Tim Westwood added "Our staff development over the last few years has been key to our success in meeting our objectives, and this internal appointment is testament to that development. It is a very exciting time within the business and a great opportunity for all to develop along with the company"

Adam Crago was appointed to the MacRail Board of Directors on 1st August 2021.

Photo credit: MacRail