

SLC to hold recruitment Discovery Day

January 5, 2023

A growing rail consultancy based in Brindleyplace – expecting to double the number of employees in 2023 – is holding its first Discovery Day on 7 February as part of its plans to fill future positions.

SLC provides project and programme management services for strategically important transport projects in the UK, including the West Midlands Rail Programme.

The sessions allow job hunters to find out if SLC could be the right move for them in the future. They will also get the chance to visit the office, speak to current employees and experience the unique SLC culture.

Sam Uren, Director at SLC Rail said: “This is an exciting time to join our business as we continue to help make rail improvements happen for local communities up and down the country.

“If you’re curious about what we do and what it’s like being part of the team, come along and find out more. We’re recruiting throughout the year and will be particularly looking for people to join us at all levels in Engineering, Commercial, Planning and Project Management.”

The Discovery Day session will last an hour and other dates will be released soon.

To find out more and book a slot, visit slcrail.com/discovery-day

Photo credit: SLC