

SWGR continues on its path of growth with new appointment

January 18, 2022

UK-wide infrastructure support services provider SWGR is delighted to announce the appointment of Brian Fogg to its senior management team based in Manchester.

Brian's appointment marks SWGR's significant drive to transform the UK's rail frontline services. With more than 20 years of experience in resourcing, operations and delivery in the rail sector, Brian's knowledge will support SWGR's growth plans in the coming years.

SWGR's growth has come through a dedication to safety and quality – recognised through its listing as a finalist in two prestigious national awards – the Safety and Health Excellence Awards 2022 and the Rail Business Awards 2022.

As such, SWGR has been appointing quality individuals that share its values, behaviours and work ethos, to grow sustainably across the UK and provide the consistently high levels of work it has been renowned for.

Brian said: "Moving to SWGR was the right choice for me in my career – the company is professional at every step and has a strong unbroken financial history of more than 30 years which demonstrates its reliability and strength in the UK rail industry.

“I have had a hugely rewarding and satisfying career so far in this great industry of ours and this is an opportunity to move forward with a forward-thinking and innovative business that instinctively does the right things for its frontline colleagues.

“Its safety intent and infrastructure is market-leading and I am proud to have the opportunity to drive this philosophy and desire forward.”

Terry Tickle, SWGR’s Head of Delivery for the South said: “Brian’s appointment is an exciting one for SWGR – he brings vast levels of experience which will be invaluable to our teams.

“He is held in high regard by many in the industry and he will be important as we deliver the next phases of our frontline services strategy.”
